variety of spaces that occur in analysis, the measurable spaces associated with uncountable Polish spaces are all isomorphic. The integral and metric space notions come together in functional analysis.

Recently, by Friedman, Koerwien, Nies, Schlicht (see [8] and [2]), the Scott analysis has been applied to the case of Polish metric spaces to better understand the equivalence relation of isometry between Polish metric spaces.

essentially, a set of points together with a rule for saying how far apart two such points are:

1. Polish spaces Polish spaces are the main objects of study in analysis and descriptive set theory.
Descriptive set theory is largely the study of the definable subsets of Polish spaces.

Polish spaces - University of North Texas

A Polish space is a topological space that is homeomorphic to a separable complete metric space. Every second countable locally compact Hausdorff space is a Polish space, among others. Polish spaces provide a useful framework for doing measure theory .

A measurable function between Polish spaces always take Borel sets to analytic sets which are, at least, universally measurable. The space  $X$  in this example is a separable metrizable metric space, whereas Polish spaces are separable completely metrizable spaces.
