According to Wu Xing theory, the structure of the cosmos mirrors the five phases. Each phase has a complex series of associations with different aspects of nature, as can be seen in the following table.

Correlated electron systems are generally difficult to simulate because of limited capabilities of computational resources. Harris et al. used a D-Wave chip based on a large array of superconducting elements to simulate the phases of a complex magnetic system. They tuned the amount of frustration within the lattice and varied the effective transverse magnetic field, which revealed phase ...

Phase transitions in a programmable quantum spin glass

Sublimation is the transition of a substance directly from the solid to the gas phase, without passing through the intermediate liquid phase. Sublimation is an endothermic process that occurs at temperatures and pressures below a substance's triple point in its phase diagram, which corresponds to the lowest pressure at which the substance can exist as a liquid.

En thermodynamique, un terme spécifique est attribué à chacune des transitions [2]. Par exemple : de gazeux à solide : condensation (exclusivement) ; de gazeux à liquide : liquéfaction (exclusivement). Classification des transitions de phase Classification d'Ehrenfest. Paul Ehrenfest tenta le premier de classer les transitions de phase, en se basant sur le degré de non-analyticité.
